
Subject: "Shatterday" to be first new TWILIGHT ZONE story

Posted by psc on Mon, 23 Sep 1985 14:03:19 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Article-I.D.: lzwi.325

Posted: Mon Sep 23 10:03:19 1985

Date-Received: Tue, 24-Sep-85 03:35:42 EDT

Distribution: na

Organization: AT&T-IS Enhanced Network Services

Lines: 19

Xref: watmath net.sf-lovers:10230 net.tv:3244

On Friday, the 27th of September, 1985, CBS's "new" series THE TWILIGHT ZONE premieres with two half-hour stories. The first is "Shatterday", which is presumably an adaptation of Harlan Ellison's terrific short story. Knowing HE's reputation, he probably wrote the teleplay (he of the three Writer's Guide awards for best teleplay of the year).

Yeah, yeah, yeah, I was the one who told you to keep an eye out for the PBS adaptation of "Overdrawn at the Memory Bank", and look what a turkey that turned out to be. But I have faith that Ellison will fight the good fight for freedom, justice, the Mutant way, and good Story on the glass teat.

--

-Paul S. R. Chisholm The above opinions are my own, {pegasus,vax135}!lzwi!psc not necessarily those of any
{mtgzz,ihnp4}!lznv!psc telecommunications company.
(sigh ihnp4!lzwi!psc does NOT work!!! Use above paths.)

"Of course it's the murder weapon. Who would frame someone with a fake?"